Creative Advantage This Month:

New Partnership Funds Available to Central Arts Pathway Schools

Thanks to underspend from last year and additional funds provided by the Seattle Office of Arts & Culture for this school year, there is an additional $2500 into the Creative Advantage arts partnership budget for each of the 13 school in the Central Arts Pathway. These funds have been loaded into school budgets. $2500 had already been loaded for a total of $5000 in Creative Advantage funds.

There is still an expectation that each school will make a $1000 match to support arts partnerships, for a total of $6000 in arts partnership budget.

These partnerships funds are for payment to arts partners selected from The Creative Advantage Arts Partner roster for the 2016-17 school year.

If you have any questions at all about accessing and using these funds, please check out the Creative Advantage Toolkit and do not hesitate to contact Audrey Querns, Creative Advantage project manager if you cannot find what you need on the Toolkit page.

By Elliot Eisner

1. The arts teach children to make GOOD JUDGMENTS about qualitative relationships. Unlike much of the curriculum in which correct answers and rules prevail, in the arts, it is judgment rather than rules that prevail.

2. The arts teach children that problems can have MORE than ONE solution and that questions can have more than one answer.

3. The arts celebrate multiple PERSPECTIVES. One of their large lessons is that there are many ways to SEE and
The arts teach children that in complex forms of problem solving purposes are seldom fixed, but change with circumstance and opportunity. Learning in the arts requires the ABILITY and a WILLINGNESS to surrender to the unanticipated possibilities of the work as it unfolds.

The arts make VIVID the fact that neither words in their literal form nor numbers exhaust what we can KNOW. The limits of our language do not define the limits of our COGNITION.

The arts teach students that SMALL DIFFERENCES can have LARGE EFFECTS. The arts traffic in subtleties.

The arts teach students to think through and within a material. All art forms employ some means through which IMAGES become REAL.

The arts help CHILDREN LEARN to say what cannot be said. When children are invited to disclose what a work of art helps them FEEL, they must reach into their POETIC CAPACITIES to find the words that will do the job.

The ARTS ENABLE us to have EXPERIENCE we can have from no other source and through such experience to DISCOVER the range and variety of what we are capable of FEELING.

The Creative Advantage is releasing our 2016 Progress Report. It is a new tool to help you share your arts team's work with staff, students and families. The report can be found here:

http://www.creativeadvantageseattle.org/go-deeper/

It contains graphics and descriptions initiative and highlights the progress made in the first two years in the Central Arts Pathway.

Since The Creative Advantage was implemented in the Central Region in 2013 there has been a 200% increase in the number of students receiving music instruction on a weekly basis (serving 876 students in 2012-13 to 3,023 students in 2014-15).

There has also been a 34% increase in students' demonstration of 21st century skills, skills critical for life and career success—especially creativity, critical thinking, communication and perseverance. Additionally, there has been an increase in arts integration for students provided by teaching artists, arts organizations and classroom teachers.

In January, paper copies will be sent to each Creative Advantage school to share with staff and families.
